

Creating Your Future

Have you decided where you want to be during the rebirthing of consciousness? Have you thought about the type of future and society you want to live in? Have you made a conscious effort to realize that dream? Have you taken action toward achieving it?

Time is quickening. The luxury of making decisions over an extended period of time has ended and the final chapter, when we finally pinpoint all the answers to those lingering unanswered questions, has arrived. NO more time for dilly dallying. If you haven't figured your way out by now, or understand the dynamics involved, you most likely never will; period. The ride to new beginnings has begun and you need to know where you're going or you won't get there.

There is not a simple path or way out. It means creating a future that will sustain you, nurture you and allow you to live in freedom from oppression; creating a reality rather than have it created by someone else to be imposed on you. It means knowing yourself well enough to be able to let go of things that don't work anymore and leaving the space free for the new to enter, preferably with you creating the new. It means functioning as a magician and transporting yourself to the environment of your choice, and creating a new niche that will sustain you through your new life cycle.

The crossroads have been reached. There is no turning back, only the decision as to which branch in the road to take. If you've been thinking of pulling up roots and moving, now may be the time. If you've been thinking of hunkering down for the long-term, and waiting it out, decide now how you'll do this, what you'll need, and the outcome you want to see occur or achieve. No plan is no plan, and sitting in limbo or waiting for someone else to impose their vision on you may not be anything worth waiting for and most probably won't be.

There are powers that would like to create your reality for you. If you do not have your own vision of the world or global peace, they will further impose on and restrict your world and the opportunities available to you, creating an environment that suits their needs and not yours, and using you as fodder for their grand schemes.

Prepare a grand scheme of your own. Design a plan for your physical, emotional, spiritual and mental evolution to include those who choose to come with you. Include whatever color and spice you want from your palette. Live, eat, and breathe life into it. Make it happen. Be a magician and create your future based on your innermost desires. Determine those desires now because there is no more time to mull over them. Then, without further ado, get to work and create a new world.