

Anchoring the Quetzalcoatl Energy

As we entered Day 6 of the Galactic Underworld (new beginnings) and approached the longest night of the year, it was time to release the old energies that had a stranglehold on our global consciousness for the last year, if not for the last 3,600 years. It was time to herald in the Quetzalcoatl energy: that light energy that was harnessed by indigenous peoples and stolen by priests of western religion during a long and detrimental hold on our cultural belief systems. Some refer to this light energy as the “true” Christ energy; others call it the Aquarian energy, others know it as the Earth energies that pierce through her veins or ley lines, and still others call it the galactic energies. These combined energies are unveiled yearly during the winter solstice.

Quetzalcoatl, the feathered serpent, goes underground during the long dark night of the year to shed his skin and feathers and renew himself. While he does this on a yearly basis, his withdrawal into the underworld also coincides with major calendar, earth and astronomical events. This particular descent coincided with the last conjunction of Pluto on the Galactic Center with the Sun; that passage through the dark volcanic tunnel to the light, tearing down the old consciousness as the planet spirals into the new consciousness. The descent also coincided with the coldest and most blustery winter week the country has seen in years. It most certainly coincided with the exposure and decline of a destructive shadow government into a burgeoning new government with the potential to provide new government, economic, and cultural systems. This particular solstice was significant because it followed our transition from Day 5 of the Galactic Underworld (Armageddon), into Day 6 where the new light consciousness will take root.

To anchor the emerging Quetzalcoatl energies on the shortest day and longest night of the year, it was important to some of us to plant the seed and firmly root it to the Earth for release into the global mindset, and that is what we did. Ten of us from as far as Pennsylvania weathered the blustering storms in Arizona to travel to Four Corners to perform three solstice ceremonies.

In between winter storms and with the few golden rays of the sun guiding us, we came together in the White Mountains to release the toxic consciousness from the Earth as well as herald the Quetzalcoatl Christ energies from the galactic center. We headed into the high desert, and we bid goodbye to the old. We planted the seed to create the new matrix over the Gobeau energy portal. This portal is the first golden city to anchor the Quetzalcoatl energies. Once rooted, these energies will spread through the Earth’s veins.

We stood firmly on the desert plateau as we looked out on the valley and the snow surrounding us, most visibly at Mt. Baldy. We invoked the Bacabs and drew down the galactic light from the galactic source, sculpting our thoughts and visions. We created a spiral of light and sound and drew it down into the earth, raised it up into our sacred circle, and drew it back down through our light bodies anchoring ourselves to the Earth as we watched the sun move from the sky to the horizon. We went into dreamtime. We began purging the old consciousness that so firmly gripped our psyches and the planet for the last 3,600 years. We ushered the new energies into our dreamtime.

It is these energies that will permeate the planet by 12/21/2012. Due to these energies, the veil will slowly lift and the focus will clear to those who are able to withstand the physical and spiritual changes that coincide with this Quetzalcoatl energy transformation. For those of us who survive the dreamtime and the galactic evolution, we will transform our DNA, shed our skin and our feathers, and mutate into our future selves.
