

Prepare for the Shift

As Armageddon films become more the norm, as war and bullying become standard operating procedure, and as more and more people continue to wonder which end is up, the real question should be, "what can I do to make a difference and save our planet?"

We are at a crossroad. There is no turning back. We must make our bed and lie in it. We are either for total destruction of the planet and the death of all that has ever been sacred, or we must focus and engage in the renewal of the feminine, her lust for life, and reverence and kindness for all Earth's creatures.

Joy is equally important at this time; especially when the media continues to bombard us with images filled with fear and hate. Performing acts of kindness with no conditions, on a daily basis, can make changes locally and extend outward, globally. We are engaged in the consummate battle of good vs. evil and everyone has their own agendas. The machines of deception and trickery are in full motion. Be discerning of those around you but be kind, and do not believe everything that you hear or read. Be skeptical of what you see on the screen and even in the air. Rely solely on your intuition, big time.

The space beings, or ETs if you wish to call them that, are here, among us, now. Those of you with missions will soon get your marching orders. Others will witness small miracles on a regular basis. Do not ignore serendipitous or synchronistic events. Do not continue to live in denial regarding the end-time prophecies. These exist for a reason, whether you believe them or not.

Alliances are forming now that will function as support groups. People who never knew each other will come together under unexpected circumstances. The tidal wave of elements that will wash the scum off the face of the Earth is building. Some of you will be traffic controllers and lifeguards during the coming whitewash. Some will function as safety nets. Know that you are not alone; as the Great Mother readies herself to purge the toxic waste in her veins off the face of the planet, there are those behind the veil ready to help us during the fall of the house of cards.

The ancient White Brotherhood is standing by to help with the transition. You may already know them. You may have been working with them every day of your life. You may have only recently been introduced to them and don't even realize it. The strength of your connection has much to do with your own state of purpose and awareness of the coming shift. If you are in denial, you are more subject to fear and control and most likely have not had contact with the brotherhood; if you are aware, then you are most likely working with them on a subconscious level, soon to become fully conscious.

Do not take the state of the Earth lightly; do not dismiss the world's rage at the United States. Superior might does not protect one from karma and eventual retribution. Denial does not protect one from harm and attack. Retribution will not only occur in the physical realms but in the spiritual realms as well. As the Earth shifts to a lighter vibration, those who have not resolved the hate and fear in their hearts will suffer unimaginable terrors as they are stuck in the low-density, dark vibration of the physical battles and purging of Earth. The battles will affect those who substitute compassion and forgiveness with hate and self-righteousness.

The months of May and June will expose some very disturbing information about the planet, our leaders, and our survival. But do take the time to smell the roses. Look for and value small moments of joy and laughter, be kind to strangers, and above all else, do not give up hope, because despite your limited 3-D vision, the invisible college is moving out of the shadows and is getting ready to put on the biggest magic show of the last millennium.
