

In the Shadow of the Galactic Center

Give your prayers of thanks on Thanksgiving for having thus far not felt the effects of our government's total corruption, and prepare yourself for the great change. While elections will be over, the election outcomes will do little to change what's already in motion. With all the sex scandals and the revelations of lies and corruption in Washington, what else can we expect?

First and foremost, following elections, the veiled reasons behind the invasion of Iraq will finally be brought to light; either by a new Congress that launches an investigation, or by the media and previously gagged officials in-the-know who finally have the courage to say enough-is-enough and call the "shots". This will include revelations around the 9/11 NYC World Trade Center disaster and the powers behind both incidents. The revelations will push an already angry populace totally over the wall.

In December (from 12/5 – 12/31), we will have yet another crossing of Pluto and the Galactic Center, this time in conjunction with Sun on the Galactic Center (December 19th) and the addition of four other planets (Sun, new moon, Venus, Mercury and Mars) lined up in Sagittarius. Further exposure of political/religious corruption and the final grabs of these institutions for power will continue during this powerful galactic alignment, while the big black galactic cosmic brain separates the wheat from the chafe, like a washing machine, wringing out the slop in its final cycle.

By December 15th (Bill of Rights Day), expect a massive reaction in regard to Bush and Company's (BushCo) gutting of habeas corpus as part of their continued attempts to erode our civil liberties. If you are a civil libertarian who has been fighting the erosion of this country's Constitution, you will be called to arms! With the continued showing of the independent film Death of a President (which opened the end of October in select cities), and further revelations of deceit along with an angry populace, expect a total rebellion for the year 2007 by an angry mob that eventually takes to the streets. By the end of December 2006, U.S. sleeper cells will have awakened from amnesia and be called to action by the galactic brain.

Additionally, warring religious factions will make their last ditched attempts to grab the reigns of power both nationally and abroad. Civil wars are imminent, increasing in already volatile areas such as the Middle East AND particularly in the U.S.! Expect continued spin from the radical religious right regarding the so-called "War on Christmas". The issue will again be thrown, ad nauseam, in the face of moderate and tolerant citizens who want nothing more than to spend their holidays in peace! But the fundamentalists want war, not peace, and most Americans will suddenly find themselves having to form alliances to ward off the assaults of theocrats and fascists who want nothing more than to take us back to the dark ages of religious mandates and witch hunts.

BushCo will make one last attempt to steal what is not theirs, in the form of raiding the U.S. treasury, gold bars (which were hidden beneath the World Trade Center) and oil. I see heads rolling as the four horsemen of the Apocalypse gallop through the Texas/Washington bureaucracy and reveal the bitter truth for all to see. This will continue through 2007 as Pluto and the Galactic Center continue to be aligned through October 27th, 2007. Bloodbaths will ensue and, unfortunately, some will be staged here in the U.S. These will be akin to the old Western hangings, with thousands demanding justice, lining up to witness the demonstrations of cowboy justice. What goes around comes around. As our government ignores pleas for compassion and justice for those they've condemned to death row, so too will the public lack compassion for those in power who have so maliciously abused their authority and power.

On a more positive note, those who have been asleep at the wheel all this time may become the most irate and vocal, allowing those of us who have diligently carried the weight of the planet's woes for the last six years to take a short rest and recoup for the final showdown.

As I've said many times, those in power will not give up easily; they'll go down kicking and screaming taking as many of our precious resources (both in people and in material wealth) down with them. They'd rather destroy us than let go, so the next ten years will see the U.S. suffer from the ravages of their greed and deceit.

After awhile, those around the world--who were also caught up in the destruction that these power mongers reeked--will display some sympathy toward us, and help the U.S. get back on its feet. But karmically, this will not happen until the majority of the U.S. has faced its own shadow and finally acknowledges that we reap what we sow, and the destruction on our soil is the direct consequence of our government's past actions and policies. This will be a hard reality to face but in the scheme of things, what goes around comes around. The Galactic alignment is in full swing and the repercussions are just around the bend. Embrace change!
